H. A. WILSON,

March 12, 1935. Clerk of School District.

Report of the Superintendent of Schools

To the School Board of Hollis, New Hampshire.

I herewith submit my third annual report, which is also one of many in the series of such reports.

UNION NO. 40

Beginning with the school year 1933-1934 Hollis was added to the four districts which had compromised this union since 1919. The apportionment of joint expenses of the districts is at present as follows: Amherst 17%, Brookline 8%, Hollis 14%, Milford 56%, and Mont Vernon 5%.

TEACHERS AND INSTRUCTION

HIGH SCHOOL: In June 1935, Miss Jennie Welton completed seventeen years of faithful service at the head of the Hollis High School. At the opening of the present school year the teaching staff was as follows: Headmaster, Mr. John H. Frye of Wilton. Mr. Frye received his Bachelor's Degree from Keene Normal in 1930 and has had five years of experience at Hampstead High School. He is also studying for his Master's Degree at the University of New Hampshire summer school. The assistants were as last year: Miss Pearl C. Rideout and Mr. Alfred F. Conner. In December Mr. Conner resigned to accept a similar position at Pinkerton Academy at Derry. He was replaced by Mr. Parker Blodgett of Exeter. Mr. Blodgett is a graduate of the University of New Hampshire.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS have the same teachers as last year—grades VII-VIII Miss Charlotte Floyd, grades V-VI Mrs. Madeline Denault, grades III-IV Miss Lucinda Read, and grades I-II Mrs. Nellie Fellows. Mr. John Priske of Nashua continues as music supervisor.

The program of study and daily time-table for the High School continue about as in previous years. As suggested in last year's report, Biology is being taught for the first time this year — it will alternate with Junior Business Training for freshmen and sophomores. Next year a course in Civics and Occupations will be given as the alternate to History of Civilization. For further details regarding high school you are referred to the report of the Headmaster.

In the elementary grades three groups may be considered from the point of view of instruction, viz., the primary, intermediate, and grammar or junior high. In the primary years, grades I-II-III, the important goal is the mastery of the mechanics of reading which means knowledge of certain word lists and ability to reason out phonetically and pronounce new words—all of which is accomplished through the use of many modern readers which are very carefully and scientifically edited. Of course, arithmetic, music, drawing, hygiene, etc., are all a part of the program but the stress is properly put on reading which is the key to all knowledge.

In grades IV-V-VI the pupil learns to apply his earlier acquired mechanics of reading to the study of the content of what he reads—in other words, his reading includes textbooks in geography, history, and so on. He is expected to gather much factual material from these subjects. In arithmetic and language these years stress drill on the fundamentals which should thus become precision tools for correct usage in the later years of school and beyond. It must be noted right here, however, that mental tools like shop tools do get rusty sometimes. So in high school some time is given in special periods to review of so-called "fundamentals" of arithmetic, spelling and place geography.

The grammar grades, VII-VIII, are commonly known as the junior high group—often grade IX is included too. Sometimes grades VII-XII are organized as a six-year high school—this is fully the case in Milford and to a lesser degree in Amherst. The physical and mental age of children in junior high covers a period of particular significance—adolescence. Girls and boys are interested in manual activities—they want to be doing something with their hands, they enjoy group projects, they like to "explore," they ask "why" and "what for." Accordingly, emphasis in the several school subjects is quite different than before: for example in mathematics, concrete geometry and concrete algebra are included: in geography, a regional and industrial treatment rather than just place geography; in history, attention to cause and effects with considerable notebook work; in science, the beginning of experiments and laboratory work. In general, the object is to make the subject of study live in the pupil's life.

Another valuable objective of this junior high period is to look ahead to high school years and find out if possible what is the aptitude of each pupil. Too often it happens that pupils drift through high school without a definite objective and then are not properly prepared for some particular post-secondary school. If girls and boys could always have the understanding and sympathetic help of their parents in planning for their future and so in choosing their studies, the school could render the maximum of service to each pupil.

The tools of instruction, books and supplies, are being furnished in adequate quantities and are being kept up-to-date year by year. During the last year a considerable number of books were bought for grades VII and VIII and for the high school. For next year the greatest need seems to be in grades V and VI. It is poor policy to allow equipment to deteriorate to the point of inefficiency or to become obsolete. In addition to the year by year renewals of basic texts as needed, it is wise to plan each year to add something to the shelf of literature in each room.

WHAT IS EDUCATION ANYWAY? It is not a course of training to prepare for life at some future date. It is living life now. It is not confined to the hours or days in the schoolroom nor to a particular chronological age. It is a continuous process throughout life. Hence is behooves us all—teachers, school officials, pupils, parents, citizens—to have a clear philosophy about education, a philosophy that considers the maximum development of the individual as of paramount importance. Such a development involves adequate teacher background and preparation, efficient administration, right attitude of girls and boys, cooperation of parents, and an intelligent and active interest in matters of education by all citizens.

NURSING SERVICE

A re-arrangement of the seven districts (Auburn, Candia, Deerfield, Hollis, Litchfield, Merrimack, and Raymond) which have for several years been combined for nursing service made it impossible for Hollis to retain Miss Margaret E. Cronin as school nurse. This is to be regretted as Miss Cronin was doing an excellent piece of work. However, the health program has not been dropped or curtailed as a fully qualified candidate was found to carry on the program. Mrs. Helen J. House R. N., of Hudson is giving one day per week, or equivalent, to this important activity. Her report will be found on a later page.

REPAIRS AND EQUIPMENT

Other extensive repairs have been made this last year due to the opportunity to secure federal aid. The projects approved made it possible to undertake complete interior and exterior painting of the entire village building, renewal of wooden shingles on part of the roof with asphalt type, and grading of the school grounds. These projects when completed will add much to the attractiveness of the property as well as preserve it. With these things done, a very little in the way of major repairs should be needed for some years. However, it might be well to consider a program clock and a fire alarm system for next year, and perhaps a different treatment of floors other than oiling.

For equipment it will be necessary another year to provide material for biology which will be taught again in the school year 1937-1938. This present year such equipment is being rented from Amherst, but this arrangement will not be possible again.

The activity period provides time for extra curricula activities, which are necessary for a complete and normal development of the individual, without upsetting the usual schedule. Rehearsals, outside speakers, remedial and make up work, class programs, club meetings, and cooperative planning of school events are cared for at this time. In order that all pupils may participate in athletics, time is occasionally taken from this period for that purpose. Thus the pupils who live at a considerable distance from the school are given some opportunity for organized play and other cultural projects.

A careful consideration of each pupil's daily program is a problem on which parents and teachers can very efficiently meet an obligation. A definite amount of time and certain facilities for daily study outside of school hours is necessary. To meet these requirements each pupil should be made to budget his time so that he will spend at least one period in preparation for each class. This daily study period need not interfere with home duties or recreation, but it is a vital part of the program—which is apparently not fully realized by many high school pupils and their parents. Definite standards for quantity and quality of work demand that certain students spend even more time in preparation than the above mentioned minimum. The increasing number of extra outside activities tend to lower the value of school work. Basketball, track, football, volley ball, dramatics, checkers, baseball, socials, judging teams, and prize speaking contests, maintained interscholastically or by intramural competition provide plenty of recreation for all students, and at the same time develop attributes far removed from commercial entertainments.

The special activities are sponsored by a general association consisting of the four High School classes and Grades VII and VIII. This organization, known as the Hollis High School A. C. E. Association, takes a partial responsibility for Athletics, promotes projects for better Citizenship and enriches Education by vitalizing it in many ways. A school seal has been created and adopted by the pupils. It is appropriate for a standard school ring and other purposes where the official insignia of the school and this association is needed. This by no means suggests that all students should have a ring, but merely provides a definite emblem for those who would buy one anyway.

The pupils in Agriculture have brought credit to themselves, their school, and their town by winning the state championship in a diversified judging contest. This contest was held at Durham on October 18, 1935. Robert Lievens was the highest individual scorer in the state, Elwin Hardy was second highest in judging fruit, Harold Hills was third in selecting livestock. Hartwell Bell and Robert Lievens tied for third place in fruit judging, and Robert Lievens was third prize winner in dairy cattle judging. The Hollis Team won first prize in fruit, fourth in poultry, third in livestock, and second in dairy cattle.

A basketball schedule consisting of twelve interscholastic games for both boys' and girls' teams is nearly completed. Other events include the Hallowe'en Masquerade Party, The School Play, The Christmas Party, The Junior Prom, Checker Tournaments, and Spelling Matches. Participation in the Annual Scholarship Day at Keene, the production of a school publication, and an orchestra appear as projects on the horizon.

The pleasant atmosphere of the school determined by its supervision, equipment, and the recent improvements in and around the building are conducive to good work. The fact that the town has made a special appropriation for the school for the use of the Town Hall is another indication of our opportunities. The innumerable occasions on which private cars have appeared to provide transportation out of town for school games, judging contests and entertainments are other examples. The challenge of these opportunities should make education the ideal of every youth. Good scholarship and as near perfect attendance as possible should be the response.

The cooperation of the town and school officials, teachers, parents, and friends is appreciated.

Respectfully submitted,
JOHN H. FRYE,

Headmaster.
